HOW DO STUDENTS DEFINE GREEN SKILLS!

Green Skills and Green Jobs Youth Consultation

Report prepared for UN Environment Programme by SOS-International, on behalf of the Green Jobs for Youth Pact Youth Advisory Group

July 2024

Green skills and green jobs are pivotal in restoring the damage done to our environmental and social systems, and are the only way to create a lasting peaceful and inclusive society with respect for our planet

(Green Skills and Green Jobs Consultation, SOS-International, 2024, p8)

Understanding the youth's perspective on green skills and green jobs, we can create more inclusive and accessible opportunities for young people to develop these skills and transition into green jobs. This requires collaboration and cooperation among institutions to transform education and create equitable pathways for all. Read the Green Skills and Green Jobs Youth Consultation to understand the views of youth all over the world on the need for green jobs.

AASU commemorates World Clean-up day

The All-Africa Students Union (AASU), in partnership with Let's do it Ghana, Eco zoil, Zoomlion Ghana, Ghana Wildlife Society, and other stakeholders in environmental action, commemorated World Clean-Up Day by mobilizing a dedicated team of volunteers to address the severe pollution at Laboma Beach in Accra. The effort made led to a positive step towards environmental action. About 30 bags of waste including plastic waste were collected.
